

They live in an old farmhouse surrounded by beautiful fields of hay and crops.

One of Ray's favorite things about the old farmhouse are the tall, wide windows that let plenty of sunlight in.

Near the house is an old hand pump that pumps rainwater from the cistern. It used to be a main water source, but now they just use it to water their plants.

Not too far from the house stands the cozy barn with its hayloft and stalls for the animals.
